

Is Lowes still owned by Walmart?

[Instant Help]

No, Lowe's is not +1-(844)-706-(3250) owned by Walmart. They are two separate, independent, publicly traded +1-(844)-706-(3250) companies with different corporate structures and leadership. Walmart +1-(844)-706-(3250) is a separate corporation, and Lowe's is not a subsidiary of Walmart.

- Separate companies: Lowe's +1-(844)-706-(3250) Companies, Inc. and Walmart are both separate and distinct retail companies.
- Different ownership: Lowe's is a publicly +1-(844)-706-(3250) traded company with its stock held by institutional investors like Vanguard and BlackRock, while Walmart's +1-(844)-706-(3250) major shareholder is the Walton family.
- Independent operations: Because they +1-(844)-706-(3250) are separate, their business strategies, leadership, and corporate policies are all different.
- Competition: The two companies compete in the retail +1-(844)-706-(3250) market, but competition does not mean one company owns the other.

Straight answer: No—Walmart does not own Lowe's. 🇺🇸 [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250) 🌐 They are independent companies. Multiple reliable sources confirm this.

Is Lowe's Still Owned by Walmart?

No — Lowe's is not owned by Walmart. TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250) Lowe's Companies, Inc. is a completely independent, publicly traded company with no ownership ties to Walmart. The two retailers operate in distinct sectors of the retail industry and have separate corporate structures, leadership teams, and shareholder bases. 📞 TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250).

Why the Confusion May Exist

- Because both are big retail brands, people sometimes assume they're related.
- There's no public record of Walmart buying or holding a controlling interest in Lowe's.
- Their business models overlap (some product categories), which adds to the misconception.

Historical Clarification

Lowe's was founded TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250) in North Carolina in 1946, long before Walmart entered the scene. Over the decades, Lowe's expanded across the U.S. and into Canada and Mexico, maintaining its own brand identity. Walmart, founded in Arkansas in 1962, grew into a global retail powerhouse, but never acquired or merged with Lowe's. 📞 TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250) .

Why the Confusion?

Both companies have nationwide store TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250) footprints and offer home-related products, leading some consumers to assume a connection. Walmart's expansion into hardware and home goods may resemble Lowe's offerings, but this is purely competitive overlap, not ownership. 📞 TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250).

International Perspective

In the UK and other countries, Lowe's has a limited presence, while Walmart TFN: +1 (844)-706-(3250) previously operated through Asda (sold in 2021). If you're outside the U.S. and looking for Lowe's support, use their international contact options or email. 📞 TFN: +1-(844)-706-(3250).

Who owns Lowes Walmart?

About the relationship between Walmart Inc. and Lowe's  [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250)  Companies, Inc., who owns each company, whether one owns the other, and why some people get confused. I'll also include some “facing words” (i.e., straightforward language) for clarity.

Summary (facing words)

- Walmart does not own Lowe's  [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250) .
- Both companies are separate, independent public corporations.
- Walmart's major shareholder: Walton family / Walton Enterprises.
- Lowe's  [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250)  major shareholders: large institutional investors (Vanguard, BlackRock, etc.), but no single controlling owner.

- If someone tells you “Walmart owns Lowe’s” 🇺🇸 [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250) 🇺🇸 or “Lowe’s 🇺🇸 [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250) 🇺🇸 is owned by Walmart”, you can politely say: “Actually, that’s not correct. They are separate companies.”
- In UK English: “No, Lowe’s 🇺🇸 [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250) 🇺🇸 isn’t part of Walmart; they operate independently.”
- In US English: “Nope, Walmart doesn’t own Lowe’s 🇺🇸 [USA] 📞 (1—844—706—3250) 🇺🇸 — they’re two distinct companies.”